

Dear Applicant,

Illustrative examples include:

- b. Convictions of child molestation or abuse, prostitution, or patronizing a prostitute.

GENERAL INFORMATION FACT SHEET

Peter Pan Seafoods intends to create and maintain a work environment that will satisfy both your personal goals and the objectives of the Company. For most people, living and working in a remote cannery location is very different from any other situation they will likely encounter. At the height of any processing season, for example, it takes the full efforts of all personnel to keep up with the steady supply of incoming fish and maintain 24-hour production. This means demanding, long hours for everyone, constant noise, cramped quarters with little or no privacy, fatigue, physical discomfort and boredom.

As an employee you may be required to do many different jobs, such as stacking boxes, cleaning fish or lifting heavy trays. All the positions require physical stamina, but few positions require creative thought or imagination. The work is tiring and monotonous, and you may have to work as many as sixteen or more hours every day for six or more weeks with no days off.

Processing fish is wet, cold and unpleasant work that requires constant repetition of movement. You will be working with dead fish while standing in uncomfortable boots and heavy rain gear. Your clothes and skin may become soaked with fish and fish by-products. These are aspects of the job you will deal with on a daily basis while we are processing fish. Working in a fish cannery is not an experience for everyone, and everyone should understand his or her limitations.

At any production location, privacy and order are at a premium. It is especially important to maintain high standards of consideration and cleanliness, both on the job and in the small quarters you will share with at least one roommate. Space for storing personal belongings is limited, and we ask that you leave your valuables at home so that they are not stolen or damaged. Peter Pan Seafoods is not responsible for any personal property that you bring to the facility. Every employee will be required, upon request, to submit to a search of his or her personal property, including, but not limited to, quarters and storage spaces.

Roundtrip transportation from Seattle is furnished, PROVIDED YOU COMPLETE THE SEASON. If you fail to complete the season, you will be responsible for the cost of your ROUND TRIP ticket. The Plant Manager is the sole authority as to when the season is over and when you have completed your seasonal obligations. "Season's End" varies depending on the fish runs. Room and Board is provided without charge. The Company provides all linen and laundry facilities are available. Bring warm clothing including: sweat pants, sweat shirts, long underwear, and lots of socks. Remember you will be working in a cold, wet environment and you need to dress accordingly. A general store is available for personal items: candy, cigarettes, etc. Peter Pan Seafoods provides exterior raingear including boots, aprons and gloves.
